THE NEW INDUSTRY STANDARD

Guardian Telecom innovates, because that's what our customers demand and that's what the future of the industry demands.

When we designed our help point series, it was based on client requests to design a rugged and reliable telecommunications device to fit into help point phones installed by other manufacturers that were having issues with reliability. Often the help point phones were out of service. We started replacing these phones with great success.

We also decided to design reliable and rugged help point systems, from pedestals to wall mounted units that avoided the failure points of systems already on the market. We had to go beyond the industry standard to meet those challenges; like, rugged reliable components, condensation and corrosion resistance, easy access panels, easy low-cost installation.

We future proofed for features like: wireless access points, media converters, power supplies, paging speakers, and other emerging technologies.

And to further prove how rugged and reliable our equipment is, we offer our industry leading 5 Year Warranty so you have complete peace of mind.

Guardian Telecom is offering you a new standard in help point design, reliability, safety, quality and value.

Welcome to the new industry standard.
